

Data from each state’s Department of Corrections is updated regularly. However, the status of a particular inmate can change quickly and a Department of Corrections search may not reflect the true current location, status, release date, or other information regarding an inmate. Some states may not include data about inmates convicted under “Youthful Offender” guidelines, incarcerated by other state or federal agencies or whose convictions have been expunged, overturned or set aside by a Court.

STATE	DESCRIPTION OF INMATE DATA
Alabama	Currently incarcerated inmates. Historical data is not available.
Arkansas	Current & Historical Inmate Data.
Arizona	Current & Historical Inmate Data. Records date to 1985.
Connecticut	Currently incarcerated inmates. Historical data is not available. Data does not include “Youthful Offenders” or inmates held on behalf of the Federal Immigration and Naturalization Service. Connecticut’s correctional facilities often include individuals that are awaiting trial. The fact that an individual is currently incarcerated does not necessarily indicate that they have been convicted of a crime.

The Roberts & Roberts Group offers the Department of Corrections search as supplemental information in support of a Statewide Criminal History or County Criminal Record Search. The Department of Corrections search should not be used as the only form of criminal background check for purposes of pre-employment screening.
